BIO

I started my career 10 years ago at Tiffen Steadicam working alongside the legendary Oscar-winning Steadicam Inventor, Garrett Brown. Whilst there, I became a Steadicam instructor teaching and assisting all over Europe for organisations such as YLE Television in Finland, BBC Training and Development in the UK and Filmbase in Ireland. I developed a two day course format bringing the "Bronze" Steadicam training workshop to the UK and Europe for the first time. I was also heavily involved in the day to day running of Steadicam, preparing equipment, maintaining parts, giving film school demos, and liaising with operators providing technical support. In addition, I spent nearly two months at the Steadicam Facility in Glendale, California learning to build and service certain mechanical components of the rigs such as stages, gimbals, and the latest generation of arms.

After 4 years, I left to begin my career as a Steadicam Operator. My hard work, reliability, and passion for moving the camera is demonstrated on set and in a rapidly expanding portfolio. I specialise in Drama, Commercials, and Live Television - one of few who can comfortably work in all the disciplines. I enjoy the unique challenges of all genres.

Due to my Live Television work, I am used to being in the rig for extended periods of time and my Commercial / Drama work helped me gain operational precision. My aim is to help deliver the vision of the DP and Director, whatever the challenge may be.

I own a top of the range Steadicam rig suitable for any professional HD, Film or Digital Cinema camera.
